

WEEKLY INSIGHT #4 - DEMOGRAPHIC TRENDS TOWARDS 2100

Posted on October 4, 2020

Category: Newsletters

By 2100, life expectancy at birth should increase to 82 years globally. By then, more than 4 people out of 5 in the world will live either in Asia or Africa.

Demographic trends are structural to understand the challenges of the century: increasing urbanization, demographic transitions, and all their social, environmental, and economic consequences, will profoundly shape our way of living. Governments and companies must anticipate and design their strategies accordingly.